

Parent's Little Book of Information

A Resource Guide for Families with Young Children

Wayne County is rich in resources for children and families; however, many of the available resources are underused because families are not aware of them.

The Parent's Little Book of Information is an attempt to increase awareness of our county's resources.

The publication and dissemination of this resource guide is made possible by the following:

AccuCopy of Goldsboro

Partnership for Children of Wayne County

We also gratefully acknowledge the Wayne County Local Interagency Coordinating Council's assistance with updating the information included in this resource guide.

5th Printing, June 2006

How To Use The Parent's Little Book of Information

Parent's Little Book of Information is a Smart Start Publication and a "must" for every parent. It is designed for the families of children ages 0-5 and the agencies that provide services to these children. We hope that families will find the guide helpful in accessing and using the many resources in Wayne County.

Take time to become familiar with all parts of the resource guide. The General Services listings are alphabetical and provide basic information about services to our youngest citizens. Agencies and organizations with a large number of resources are listed separately with each agency service for young children defined (Health Department, Mental Health, Department of Social Services, etc.) The Alphabetical Index should be used if you know the name of the program. If you have an issue or know the subject, the Categorical Index will provide several possibilities for addressing your concerns. Check the Questions Index to determine if your question is similar to the frequently asked questions.

To receive additional copies of the Parent's Little Book of Information or to provide comments or suggestions and/or ways you have been able to use the book, please contact:

What you will find ...

- Have you wondered who to call regarding certain situations?
- Who can answer your questions?
- Who are the experts in the area?

The Parent's Little Book of Information is designed to collect and organize a comprehensive list of agencies, organizations, and programs in Wayne County that provide either free or sliding fee (based upon family income) services especially for young children. Many privately owned resources are also available but are not included to prevent the appearance of a recommendation by the sponsoring agencies. Please consult your phone book yellow pages for additional services. By the time a resource guide is printed, new programs may be created, or existing programs may cease to exist.

The inclusion of a program does not constitute endorsement by the Partnership for Children nor does the omission imply a lack of endorsement. Every attempt was made to include all existing services and provide accurate and current information; however, we recommend calling to verify location and hours of operation. The Partnership for Children does not assume responsibility for inaccuracies or omissions.

Parenting Tips

How to Help Your Crying Baby

A baby cries for many reasons.

I cry because there is something I want to let you know.

Sometimes I cry to tell you:

- ①• I am hungry.
- ①• I have a gas pain.
- ①• I am too cold or I am too hot.
- ①• Something scared me.
- ①• I am sick or I hurt.
- ①• I am bored or lonely.
- ①• There is too much noise.
- ①• Too many different people are holding me.
- ①• My diaper is wet and I need to be changed.
- ①• I am tired.

Sometimes I cry when I think you are feeling upset or grumpy. Sometimes I am just fussy because:

- ①• I don't know how to settle down.
- ①• I am in a bad mood.

You may feel bad, angry, helpless, or worried if you don't know why I am crying, how to comfort me, or how to keep me from crying so much.

Help me to be happy most of the time.

Each baby is different.

Get to know what I need and get to know me. Learn that I have different cries that mean different things. One cry means, I want to eat. Another means I want to do something else.

By thinking about what I need, you can help me stay happy. Knowing what I don't like can help to prevent me from being fussy.

- ①• Be sure to change my diaper if I am wet or dirty. Like most babies, I will need to be changed at least every 3 hours when I am awake.
- ①• Make sure I am not too hot or too cold.
- ①• Don't feed me more milk than I need. I will let you know when I have had enough.
- ①• Don't feed me cereal or solid food without talking to my doctor first.
- ①• Don't leave me in an infant seat too long. I like to do many activities. I may fuss to tell you that I want to do something else.

I need to suck.

- ①• Let me suck as much as I want to, either on a pacifier or my fingers.
- ①• Try different pacifiers until I find one that I like.

I need to learn that I belong to my parents.

- ①• You can't spoil me at this age. When I learn that you will help me, I will cry less.
- ①• Spend as much time with me as you can when I am awake.
- ①• Touch, hold, hug, cuddle, and love me.
- ①• Talk to me.
- ①• Walk or rock me.
- ①• Come to me as soon as you can when I cry.

As a young baby, I need lots of sleep and quiet time.

- ①• Let me sleep a lot if I want to.
- ①• Place me in a quiet place. I don't like a lot of noise and I don't need a lot of visitors.

As I get older, I will want to do more things with you.

- ①• Play with me and talk with me.
- ①• I will tell you when I am tired of doing something by fussing or turning my head away.

Try to find out why I am crying:

Look to see if I:

- ①• am wet or have a dirty diaper.
- ①• am too hot or too cold.
- ①• am hungry.
- ①• am too full.
- ①• need to burp.
- ①• have a stomachache.
- ①• am tired.

Is there too much going on?

- ①• Is there too much noise in the room?
- ①• Are there too many people holding or touching me?
- ①• Are people smoking around me?

Am I sick?

- ①• Do I have a fever?
- ①• Am I vomiting?
- ①• Have I had a bowel movement in a while?
- ①• Do I have loose bowels or diarrhea?
- ①• Do I have a diaper rash or some other rash?
- ①• Do I have a cold or runny nose?
- ①• Am I pulling on my ears? This may be a clue that I have an ear infection.
- ①• If I have any of these problems, you can check with my doctor to see if I am sick.

To help me stop crying:

- ①• Pick me up and hold me.
- ①• Snuggle or wrap me in a blanket.
- ①• Talk or sing to me.
- ①• Play soft music.
- ①• Lower the lights.
- ①• Give me something to look at or something to play with.
- ①• Give me a pacifier.
- ①• Sit with me in a rocking chair.
- ①• Walk or dance with me.
- ①• Take me for a ride in the car or in the stroller.

NEVER SHAKE ME

No matter how upset or angry you feel, do not shake me.

Shaking me can cause brain damage or even death. I will outgrow this constant crying.

Holding and cuddling me tells me that you love me and that you want me to feel better.

Back to Sleep Stomach to Play

Put babies on their back to sleep until at least one year of age, it cuts down on the risk of crib death or Sudden Infant Death Syndrome (SIDS).

When your baby is awake, put him on his stomach to play and for exercise. This will help his neck, arms and shoulder muscles grow strong.

Ten ways to give your child a great start in life

What you do in the first three years of your baby's life directly impacts the adult your child will become. Research clearly shows that the brain and personality of a child develop in dramatic ways during the first years of a child's life. Quite simply, the first years last forever.

1. Hold your baby. Loving touch is a powerful way to stimulate positive mental, physical and social development in a child. It also provides a secure sense of being loved, valued, and safe. Cuddle your baby often; rock him; hug and kiss him as you feed and change him. Gently massage his back, tummy, arms, and legs in order to calm him or simply to interact with him. Never hit or shake your baby!!

2. Respond to the child's signals. Try to understand what your baby is feeling or telling you with his facial expressions, movement or sounds. As adults, we like having people listen to us and show understanding or our feelings; so does an infant! Sensitive responses build a child's sense of trust, personal attachments, and feelings of self-esteem.

3. Talk, sing, and read to your child. Fill your child's day with language! Even a tiny infant is absorbing the sounds around him, learning to recognize particular voices, the rhythm of sentences, and - gradually - the meaning of certain words. Talk about what you are doing; talk about what your baby is doing; name the things in your child's world. Say rhymes, recite poetry, and play music. Share looking at and handling sturdy picture books. Remember, school success depends on the ability to use language well and to enjoy reading. You can lay the foundation for this in your child's first two years!

4. Play with your child. Have fun together! The greatest gift you can give your child is your time and attention. As parents, you are the most important people in a child's life. No one can replace you!

5. Establish rituals and routines. A child enjoys the security of certain routines such as books, songs or special toys at bedtime. Regular times for meals, naps, and bedtime structure to a young child's day.

6. Encourage self-exploration and play. As your child grows, provides safe ways for him to experience his world. Introduce him to a variety of tastes and things to touch. An enriched environment actually stimulates brain development during the first few years. Childproof your home so that your baby can safely crawl or toddle with few restraints. Limit television. Active learning is always better than passive.

7. Give your child a healthy start. Keep your baby well instead of just getting help if he gets sick! Make sure he gets regular check ups, on time immunizations, plenty of rest, and a well-balanced diet. Never put your baby at risk by delaying his shots; they can be obtained through the health department, as well as private doctors.

8. Recognize that each child is unique. Every child is a very special gift with individual temperaments, talents, appearance, and growth patterns. Never compare children. Look for and encourage the special gifts your child brings.

9. Emphasize the positive. Say positive things to your child. Negative comments or putdown can lead to low self-esteem, anger, and social problems and misbehavior. Affirm your child's strengths - and they will become even stronger. Catch your child being good...and his behavior will improve. Whatever a parent pays attention to will increase - whether it's desirable or undesirable. Teach your child limits. Always use discipline as an opportunity to teach good behavior and self-control.

10. Take care of your self. If you are tired, unhappy, or irritable, your child will suffer. Get enough rest; maintain supportive relationships, add some interesting experience or hobbies to your life.

Help your child develop to his or her fullest potential!

Car Seat Safety

-  All children in all seats must be buckled at all times.
-  Children under age 8 and less than 80 pounds must ride in a weight appropriate child safety seat that meets federal motor vehicle safety standards at time of purchase.
-  If the vehicle is equipped with an active front passenger-side airbag, children must be secured in the back seat.
-  Children under age 16 must ride in an age appropriate restraint system no matter where they sit. The law applies to all passenger vehicles with both in-state and out-of-state registration.
-  The driver is held responsible for proper restraint of children.
-  Violation of child passenger safety laws may result in fines and court costs.

Safeguard Your Children

-  Teach them never to talk to strangers.
-  Teach them to never ride their bikes alone. Always ride with a buddy and always wear a helmet.
-  Teach them never to play in the street.
-  Teach them to look both ways and watch for cars before entering or crossing the street.
-  Establish neighborhood boundaries in which they may play.
-  Teach them to never open the door to a stranger.
-  If they should see a gun, teach them to stop, don't touch and call an adult.
-  Teach them to never get into a car with someone they don't know.
-  If they feel threatened, teach them to run away as fast as they can.
-  Develop a secret password that must be used if someone unfamiliar is to pick them up from school or play.

Child Care

Child Care

There is child care, and then there is child care: Quality is the major difference. You will breathe easier when you've found someone to hold, hug and play with your child the same way you do...an experienced caregiver who will give your child the nurturing and the skills to learn, grow and discover the world around him/her...a daily partner with you and your child's development.

How To Find Quality Child Care

Visit, Visit and Visit Again

Schedule interviews with several caregivers-well in advance of the time you will first need care. Visit each of them more than once at different times-over a period of several days to get a feel for the rhythm and pace of the caregiver's routine. How does the caregiver interact with the children? Does the caregiver enjoy talking and playing with them?

How does the caregiver respond to a fussy child or resolve conflicts among children? A capable, loving child care provider is in control, but shows flexibility in responding to the needs of different children. Keep visiting from time to time, even after you've selected child care.

Look at Things from Your Child's Point of View

To really understand the child care environment, look at the space from your child's level. Is the home or center childproofed and clean? Ask yourself the questions your child might ask like, "Do they have toys for me," "is there a space to put my things," "are the other children happy and content?"

Less Is More

Know what ratios are allowed and what ratio you prefer. In North Carolina, the child-to-caregiver ratio for children up to age one is 5 to 1. A low child-to-caregiver ratio is especially important for infants and young toddlers.

Ask Plenty of Questions

You'll want to know about your caregiver's qualifications, special training, and past child care experiences-as well as those of other adults who will interact with your child in the day care setting. Don't be afraid to ask specific questions; in fact, the more specific, the better. Have certain topics in mind that cover all your concerns...from the child care facility's expectations of you to your accessibility to your child at all times. Good caregivers will answer your questions easily, openly, honestly. Then ask to speak with the parents of other children in their care. Always check references!

For more information please contact your local Child Care Resource and Referral agency at 919-735-3371.
